

Kimberly Beth Ingram – Bio 2018

Kimberly Ingram is the Chief Information & Strategy Officer for Lansing Board of Water & Light. Prior to this, she served in various roles and organizations. CIO/ Executive Director for Wayne Regional Educational Services Agency (WRESA). Prior to joining the WRESA Team, she was the Assistant Dean & Director of Technology, at S.I. Newhouse School of Public Communications and served as Executive Portfolio / Program Director for Compuware Corporation for 14+ years.

Kimberly was named 2014/2015 Women of the Year for Outstanding Excellence & Innovation to my field & The Achievement of Women by the National Association Of Professional Women; awarded the GMAC CIO Award for Outstanding Contributions to the growth of the company; twice awarded the Compuware Employee of the month award. Kimberly's innovation in Education got her a seat the Table of Apple Headquarters working with their Executive Leadership Team in Cupertino, on k12 Digital Transformation Initiatives, as an Education Partner to Google, she piloted the first of 5 pair of Google Glasses in the World to define strategies for use in the education space. She serves on the Detroit CIO Advisory Board, formerly served on the Board of Directors for International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE), sat on the Executive Leadership Institute Advisory Board, The Detroit CIO Technology Summit Board and The Technology Executive Club.

Kimberly holds a M.A., in Education Technology, a B.S., in Public Administration, an A.A. in General Studies with a Concentration in Culinary Arts, a Graduate Certificate from Michigan State University, as a Fellow in the Education Policy Fellowship Program (EPFP) through Institute of Educational Leadership. She has been a guest speaker for HMG Conferences on the subjects of Summoning the Courage to Lead, Career Ascent, CIO Advice, Creating Innovation, and Thought Leadership. Additionally, she's spoken on Personalized Learning for Discovery Communications at the Florida Educational Technology Conference, Guest Keynote speaker for the International Rotary Club, frequently speak on the subjects of leadership, Program& Project Management and Personalized Learning.

Kimberly is a member of various organizations, Michigan Council of Women in Technology, Project Management Institute, CUE, Big Brothers Big Sisters, Detroit Public Schools Reading Corp, Michigan Association for Computer Users in Education, Black Data Processing Association, Association for Career & Technical Education.